

-Make your objective a statement and not point form. Write it like you're talking to the reader. Use this statement to make you stand out from your peers. You could write about what you hope to gain from this internship and what your career goals are.

-When you discuss your work and research experience focus on the value you brought to the groups you worked with. How did your work help them and what benefit did they get by having you work there.